FOREWORD FROM CHAIRPERSON

Many travel customers opt to book products and services via a travel agency, benefiting from the convenience and expertise involved. An easy way to help you or your company better handle its travel needs is by partnering with credible and certified travel agents. To assist with this, the Kenya Association of Travel Agents has compiled a comprehensive directory of all the KATA certified travel agencies complete with details on their areas of specialisation.

Now in its 11th edition, KATA 2022-23 Travel Agents Directory presents to you a simple way to find and connect with credible and certified travel agents operating in Kenya. Today, more than ever, the role of travel agents to streamline the travel experience for all types of travelers, has been elevated considering the past two and a half years pandemic period.

The Covid-19 pandemic has been an extended crisis for the travel industry in Kenya and we saw more customers turn to travel agents for advice in the most uncertain times. They trusted us as their go-to source of credible information as they tried to sort through the information mess.

As travel agents, we have always leveraged personalised service as a drawcard and selling point for our businesses. We have collaborated with travellers to satisfy individual preferences as we leverage personal relationships with suppliers, like hotels and airlines, to deliver a better travel experience.

The Kenya Association of Travel Agents (KATA) has remained a steadfast and a strong voice of the industry. Our lobbying work has continued undeterred even as we continue to demand for favourable regulatory and business environment for our members.

Our members, partners and the many stakeholders have played vital role in building an industry, which is integral to fulfilling our mandate to represent, influence, empower, and defend the interests of travel agents – while remaining authentic and authoritative in our dealings with stakeholders across the tourism industry.

As demand returns and bookings on the rise, KATA members are at the heart of fuelling recovery and powering future growth of the travel industry in Kenya. This edition of the Travel Agents Directory is a marker that our members are ready to reinvigorate travel recovery and create long-term value that customers are looking for.

Customer expectations have evolved and going back to ‘normal’ is not an option. KATA members have the onus to build back sustainably, responsibly, and accountably while balancing customer satisfaction with a return to profit. Covid-19 pandemic gave us an opportunity to evolve our strategies to keep up with changing customer demands and industry trends.

As industry leaders, we must ensure that we gain a deeper understanding of changes across heterogenous customer segments and geographies and use those insights to tailor our communications, products, and services to differentiate our brands, build awareness among each passenger segment, and better connect with customers.

2022 has been a year of recovery. We can say for certain that the travel industry has moved past the depths of its worst ever crisis as witnessed by the strong recovery of passenger traffic. Our members now have significant influence on what the industry will look like beyond the crisis.

As an association, our attention is drawn to addressing the future landscape and associated trends for travel agents. Whilst implementing all necessary changes to protect our members' businesses, we have focused on creating opportunities grow our association and value offering to members, signing important partnerships, and growing our corporate members portfolio.

We aim to empower our members to cater for the travel needs of people from across geographies, connecting them to an ever-growing number of destinations in their key markets. We are convinced that the travel industry will continue to thrive and we will continue to pursue our mission to champion and sustain the growth of Travel Industry in Kenya.

KENYA TRAVEL RECOVERY IS UNDERWAY DESPITE RISKS

As countries closed their borders one after the other during the first months of the COVID-19 pandemic, it quickly became apparent that the travel industry would be one of the hardest hit. For travel agents in Kenya, the impact was immediate and absolute. There was a sudden influx of customer issues for refunds, cancellations, and bookings.

As the pandemic's rampage continued its unprecedented chaos and disruption, many stranded travellers turned to travel agents to get them home safely, an opportunity that showed just how agile and resilient travel agents can be. The travel agents exuded this resilience in the entire 2021 period, efforts that saw travel recovery towards the end of 2021 and significant rebound in 2022.

In a forum held by the Kenya Association of Travel Agents (KATA) and Amadeus East Africa in June 2021, we examined the outlook on recovery and demand performance for the travel industry in Kenya in 2021 and going forward.

Amadeus search and agency booking data showed a slight improvement in both outbound and inbound search demand and booking volumes for 2021 compared to the same period in 2020.

Data collected revealed that travel demand remained significantly below pre-COVID-19 levels due to international travel restrictions in key markets in Europe, North America, and Asia. However, from June 2021, there was growth in searches and bookings to EAC countries, with Tanzania leading as a leisure destination.

During the same period, there was a growing demand for inbound travel into Kenya from the USA, Germany and UK. Domestic travel searches remained high as people sought to travel more within the country. However, overall travel demand to and from Kenya stood at -69.9% in June 2021 compared to same period in 2019.

Speaking during the webinar, Jamel Chandoul Senior Vice President, MEA Amadeus noted that recovery will be driven by rebuilding traveller confidence and trust. The report also noted that collaboration amongst industry stakeholders was mentioned as key to reigniting global travel. 72%-74% of travelers said they were willing to store travel health data electronically if it enables them pass through airports faster and travel to more destinations. 68% of travellers said they were willing to share health data if the airlines that they frequently fly with, offer to store it.

Kenya Inbound Trends

A key trend noted in data by Amadeus is that travellers are planning and booking with shorter lead times. Most searches for travel to Kenya in 2021 originated mainly from the USA, 43% of total demand, followed by Germany 8%, UK 7% and Canada 4%. The USA also recorded the highest relative share of bookings at 30% followed by Germany at 8% and UAE and UK at 4% each.

Kenya Outbound Demand

Data showed that the demand for Kenyans to travel to destinations outside Kenya had been increasing steadily. The average daily search activity of Kenyans in June 2021 was 8% higher than the year-to-date (June 2021) average and in July 2021 it was 35% above the 2021 average.

A key outbound trend noted at the time was that the booking and departure lead time significantly reduced in 2021 YTD compared to 2019. This was largely driven by the uncertainties with the destinations that Kenyans travel to. The constantly changing travel restrictions affected early bookings and most Kenyans preferred to book close to their departure date.

Key insights for Travel Agents

1. Shorter lead times - The constantly changing landscape caused by the pandemic has weakened consumer confidence and shortened the average booking to departure lead time. Travel Agents can leverage last-minute promotions to entice customers.

2. Emerging Destinations - With some markets enforcing travel bans and others opening themselves up to inbound tourism, there has been a new order for top destinations. By monitoring border openings, Travel Agents can prepare new offers and entice clients whilst demonstrating their knowledge of the evolving situation.

3. Extended stays in destination - There has been a global trend of longer average stays in destination. In Kenya, there was a 20% increase in booked trips of 20 days or more in 2021. Travel Agents may want to consider increasing the number of longer stay trips in their offering.

4. Indulgent travel increases - Qualitative studies conducted by Amadeus indicated that travelers desired more indulgent and longer holidays. In Kenya the relative share of booked seats in premium classes increased by 2% in 2021. This translates to an increased potential to upsell clients to premium seats.

The Amadeus report findings painted a picture of the passenger recovery rebound that travel agents are witnessing in 2022. Despite this outlook, travel will likely be one of the last consumer sectors to see demand return at full strength.

In a statement to the press mid this year, IATA's Director General Willie Walsh said, "the travel recovery continues to gather momentum. People need to travel. And when governments remove COVID-19 restrictions, they do. Many major international route areas – including within Europe, and the Middle East-North America routes – are already exceeding pre-COVID-19 levels. Completely removing all COVID-19 restrictions is the way forward."

For the travel industry, 2022 is about more than simply watching air passenger volumes increase and hotels' occupancy rates pick up as visitors return to cities and beaches. We believe that some trip types will fare better than others, and some demographic groups will lag others. The pandemic has brought changes to the way we live and work.

Some of those changes are likely to continue to affect travel even in the post pandemic.

In a nutshell

According to the 2022 Deloitte travel outlook report titled 'The winding path to recovery', there is pent up demand for travel globally despite the risks such as high inflation, including rising travel costs, and staff shortages, that threaten the ongoing recovery in Kenyan travel in 2022. The report notes that there is a pent-up international demand and a corporate travel leisurely return whose demand is expected to start picking in 2022. There is also rise in travel's remote work opportunities, with younger and wealthier travelers leading the return.
